

Full Circle* Gives Members a Chance to Provide a Safety Net

The USTA is proud to sponsor Full Circle, a program to encourage individuals to provide a “safety net” for horses they bred, owned, trained, drove, cared for or just admired. The initiative is modeled after a similar program first introduced by the American Quarter Horse Association.

The Full Circle program allows, at no charge, anyone with interest in a horse or horses, to record their name and contact information in the USTA record of that horse. If that horse should ever become unwanted, the individual with custody of the horse at that time can contact the USTA Member Services Department to see if the horse has been enrolled in Full Circle.

By enrolling a horse in Full Circle and providing your contact information for that horse, you give the USTA permission to provide that information to an individual inquiring as to the horse’s possible Full Circle enrollment. If you enrolled a horse, this is the point where you could be contacted by that individual, not the USTA, to help. From there, the options are up to you and the person contacting you. The USTA has no involvement or stake in the outcome.

The options may include taking the horse back, recommending or facilitating adoption or alternative career options, providing funds for care or training as a pleasure horse if you choose. The choices are varied and up to you and the current owner or contact person. If your situation has changed and you can’t help—there’s no obligation on your part by enrolling the horse. You can also delete your name from a horse’s Full Circle enrollment, also at no charge.

To enroll a horse in Full Circle, you must have the registered name or names of the horse(s) you wish to enroll. If you do not know the horse’s registered name, or think it may have been changed, please provide the tattoo or freeze brand. Also, be ready to provide all your contact information, including alternate individuals who will know how to reach you should you move or change your phone number or e-mail address after enrolling a horse in Full Circle.

You can currently enroll a horse in Full Circle one of two ways:
